life. Members of the crew of the steamer Ayer, Lord Fleet, who abandoned their boats at Lacenter and escaped to shore over the ice, assert that crews of other boats had ample opportunity to leave their craft and believe they are safe.

Advices from Cairo today said that some of the boats from Paducah passed that place last night. It was believed that none of them could be saved.

WATER RISING RAPIDLY.

(Associated Press Telegram)
Memphis, Jan. 30.—Ice packs gorging the Mississippi river at Columbus, Ky., let go early today under pressure of water and ice released from gorges in the Tennessee river.

At Hickman, Ky., the river was reported packed with ice and rising at the rate of 10 inches an hour.

GORGES IN GREEN RIVER.

(Associated Press Telegram)
Rumsey, Ky., Jan. 30.—Ice gorges in Green river, which empties into the Ohio opposite Evansville, Ind., approximately 100 miles from here broke today but river men hope warm weather will disintegrate the flow before it reaches the larger stream where packets, dredges and other paraphernalia of contracting companies engaged in government work are frozen in. The fleet, according to rivermen, represents an investment of $2,000,000.

RED CROSS RELIEF.

(Associated Press Telegram)
Cleveland Jan. 30.—Relief instructions were wired today by James L. Fieser, director of civilian relief, American Red Cross, to all Red Cross chapters in Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana which are in or adjacent to territory hit by high water and ice flows. These chapters have been asked for an immediate report on the number of families affected and the nature of the damage done or threatened. The instructions asked chapters to combine their civilian relief and executive committees into an emergency relief committee augmented by municipal authorities and civic organizations. Sub-committees are being appointed to look after finances, transportation of families and furniture, temporary housing, food, clothing, sanitation and permanent relief.

"Lake division and national headquarters of the Red Cross are ready to supplement the efforts of local Red Cross flood relief if necessary," Mr. Fieser said today.

Chatanooga, Jan. 30.—The Tennessee river was rising at the rate of one foot in three hours today, the gauge reading 33.3 feet. Already much low ground is inundated and a number of residents in exposed places have been forced to move out. The crest of the rise will not reach here before Friday.

STATE INTRODUCES TESTIMONY IN THE A. O. KERN TRIAL

In common pleas court in the case of the State of Ohio vs. A. O. Kern, the state began on Wednesday morning the introduction of its testimony. The state had not concluded its evidence at the time of going to press. A verdict is not expected before the latter part of the week.

The state charges that on January 6, 1914, the defendant burned a piano in his restaurant at the corner of Second street and the Panhandle railroad, for the purpose of obtaining the insurance on the piano.

GIRLS' PAINS AND WEAKNESS

Yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
Thousands of Girls Benefited

St. Louis, Mo.—"When I was only fifteen years old mother had to put me to bed every month for two days because I suffered such pain. I also suffered from a weakness and mother took me to a doctor but he did not help me. Finally mother made me take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has made me strong and healthy. So when mother or I hear any woman complaining we tell them about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it did for me."—Mrs. JOHN FRANK, 1121 N. 18th St., St. Louis, Mo.

Girls who suffer as Mrs. Frank did should not hesitate to give this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial, as the evidence that is constantly being published proves beyond question that this grand old remedy has relieved more suffering among women than any other medicine.

Baby Morrison Marshall, the vice president's baby.

What parent can look at this seventeen-month-old bouncer and not forget war woes and worries at least for the time? He is Clarence I. Morrison, or Morrison Marshall to give him the name Washington knows him best by. He is a protégé of Mrs. Thomas R. Marshall, wife of the vice president, and has developed from a tiny, undergrown infant to what you see. Mrs. Marshall found him in a Washington diet kitchen infirmary and borrowed him from his mother that she might care for him in her own home. He is one of twins, the mother keeping the other one.

The Marshalls have not adopted the boy but have an indefinite "loan" of him. Part of his rejuvenation was due to a few weeks in Michigan and Arizona with the Marshalls.

fact than that of the night previous when 47 persons were killed and 169 injured. This time the known casualties were only three killed and nine injured although it is feared that six additional deaths may be revealed by the uncovering of bodies buried in the ruins of a house. The raiders failed to penetrate to the heart of London such bombs as they were able to launch being dropped in the outskirts.

Dissatisfied with the progress of the peace negotiations and Prussian electoral reforms, German workmen have brought about serious strikes in Berlin and other parts of the empire. The German government has begun repressive measures and has ordered the arrest of the six leaders of the Independent-Socialist party, while at Kiel the leaders of the obdurate workmen have been sent into the army.

In Berlin and its suburbs, 90,000 workers were not at their tasks Monday, seriously hampering the electric works and airplane factories about the capital. Strikes in the great manufacturing district along the Rhine and in Westphalia also are reported. The steel-making district of Essen has been affected and at Kiel workers in torpedo factories and dockyards have been out since Friday.

Meetings in the industrial centers have been prohibited. The strike agitation has been fostered by the Independent-Socialists and not by the trade unions. In addition to ordering the arrest of the Independent-Socialist leaders, the authorities are said to have imprisoned Adolph Hoffmann, editor of Vorwärts, Independent-Socialist leader in the Prussian diet.

The strike movement is said to be directed against the delay in passing the Prussian reform bill and the annexationist propaganda conducted by the fatherland party, which has assailed the conduct of the German emissaries at Brest-Litovsk.

Generally the strikes broke out Monday, the day after the emperor's birthday.

In Finland the revolutionists have set up a government of their own. Late reports are to the effect that the fighting has lessened in intensity with the revolutionists in control in the south and the government forces victorious in the north. Swedish subjects in Finland are endangered by the revolt and one report is to the effect that Swedish troops already have entered Finland to aid the government and the senate.

Haly's successful smash against the invaders in the Asiatic region has been the only important military event. The Austrians, defeated in their first counter-attacks, have not yet attacked the new Italian positions in great force. The Italians have made secure their gains east of Asiago, in the capture of which they took more than 1,500 prisoners. On the western front the British have repulsed an attempted raid near Arras and the French checked a German raiding party in Alsace, taking prisoners.

The artillery and aerial activity is most marked in Flanders and in Northern Italy.

The armed British escort vessel Mechanician and the British torpedo gunboat Hazard have been lost in the English channel. The Mechanician was torpedoed and stranded on January 20, with the loss of 12 men. A collision caused the sinking of the Hazard on Monday. Three lives were lost.

German airmen again raided England, Tuesday night, but were unable to break through the London defenses, early reports said. Bombs were reported to have been dropped on the outskirts of the city. The raid, like the one Monday night, caused 47 deaths, continued for several hours.

CAMP SHERMAN NOTES

(Associated Press Telegram)
Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, Ohio, Jan. 30.—Artillery selects, whose stock has taken a big jump since they have been having excellent target practice, were further elated today over the announcement from headquarters of the 158th artillery brigade, to the effect that as soon as the new 4.7 inch howitzers arrive, all of the three inch field pieces, together with the howitzers and a number of machine guns will be taken to the range to give the selects the benefit of working in conjunction with different kinds of weapons.

Selects from the two light field artillery regiments will man the three-inch field pieces, with the men of the 324th operating the howitzers while soldiers in the 322nd, 323rd and 324th machine gun battalions will work their deadly weapons. A heavy barrage fire with all three kinds of guns going will be a feature of the combined work.

Where infantry selects are obliged to see their training schedule far from up to date, the artillery men are farther ahead than the rest of their comrades. Each battery as it goes on the range is being given special problems to work out and each officer is given opportunity to command gunners while working out at least one problem in addition to getting the benefit of watching his brother officers work out their problems. Not only are the selects learning to handle their guns in a fashion which pleased their officers, but they are being taught to handle their horses in actual field practice.

So accurate was the work of Battery E, in firing at a real machine gun emplacement yesterday that three direct hits were made on the fortification at a distance of nearly two miles with the target out of sight.

Upwards of 2,500 selects were confined to their barracks at present, following the discovery of cases of scarlet fever, meningitis and diphtheria among their comrades. The actual cases are removed to the contagious disease ward at the base hospital, but the rest of the men are kept in quarantine usually for a period of two weeks. Twelve companies or batteries are isolated at present. But 240 cases of measles were reported today among the selects, the best showing in nearly a month.

Denial that small taxicabs were to be kept out of camp, except at certain times, was made by Brigadier General Frederick Perkins, acting commander of the division, today, in a letter to Mayor Walter S. Story, of Chillicothe. He stated that the sole object in view was to make the traffic as safe as possible and where one large car would do the work of two smaller ones the large machines would be given preference ordinarily.

He also stated it was the desire of the military authorities to give the best possible service to the selects and to visitors and that bootlegging and improper conduct in the taxicabs will be eliminated.

Discipline in certain platoons in the officers' training school here was characterized by Major I. A. Smith, senior instructor, as better than he ever saw in the regular army.

FLIERS AGAIN DROP BOMBS IN AERIAL ATTACK

ers are still buried in the debris. One of the touching incidents in connection with the raid, was the death of a minister who, whenever raid warnings were given, had been in the habit of visiting various shelters Monday night he was addressing people who had collected in one shelter when a bomb dropped on it killing the minister and a number of others.

The Central News says that twenty-nine bodies already have been recovered from the building. Firemen and soldiers are still pouring water on the burning debris. Many bodies were burned most severely.

Among the number was that of a woman who still clasped two small children to her breast. The success of the British airmen against the German invaders in Monday night's raid has caused discussion in some quarters that a heavy barrage over London during a raid is rather more harmful than helpful. It is said that the air board should give the airmen a clear field in dealing with the raiders instead of employing gun fire which caused damage to property and some casualties through falling shrapnel.

HAS NOT FIXED DATE FOR NEXT CALL OF DRAFT

(Associated Press Telegram)
Washington, Jan. 30.—War department legislation, tentatively agreed upon by the senate military committee and designed to provide additional draft machinery, was ready today for introduction in the senate.

The bills provide for the registration of youths attaining the age of 21 years since June 1 last, authorizing the fixing of quotas on the basis of class one of the new classification and empowers the president to call men needed for special industrial work.

Provost Marshal General Crowder in an explanation to the committee, said it was proposed to hold a new drawing to establish the order of liability of the new registrants. It is assumed, he asserted, that most of the new registrants will fall in class one, giving the class this year a total of more than two million men. From this class, it is expected, to take the next and future drafts.

Secretary Baker's plan to exempt men who have attained the age of 31, disapproved by General Crowder, is not included in the legislation. Secretary Baker last night disclosed that the war department had not fixed the date for another draft and made clear that the expansion of America's present fighting force depends upon events in France and the shipping situation.

COURT PROCEEDINGS FOR POSSESSION OF ATTY. P. B. SMYTHE

(Associated Press Telegram)
Columbus, Jan. 30.—A fight between relatives and friends for the possession of Phil B. Smythe, of Newark, one of the most brilliant criminal lawyers in central Ohio and a former prosecuting attorney of Licking county, developed in the Franklin county courts today when Judge Frank Halmell, of the common pleas court called for hearing a habeas corpus proceedings filed last night by a private detective, Tom Foster, to free the Newark lawyer from the McMillen sanitarium.

Smythe was placed in the sanitarium at Shepherd last Saturday by his father, Judge B. G. Smythe, of Newark, when he was in an unconscious condition. He was to remain in the sanitarium for a week. Acquaintances, however, who did not desire that their identity be disclosed by the court proceedings procured the private detective to file the habeas corpus action.

When the case was called this morning, it developed that the deputy sheriff who had the habeas corpus proceedings in charge had turned the prisoner over to the detective and that Mrs. Phil Smythe had telephoned from Newark that her husband had arrived home late at night and was in a very bad condition. Attorney J. R. Fitzgibbon, of Newark, who appeared in court this morning for Judge Smythe, stated that he had learned from Dr. Kidd of the sanitarium that Smythe was to have been kept in the county jail until the hearing today.

The sheriff's office, however, and Attorney Clayton A. McCleary, who represented the detective, stated that it was his understanding reached at the sanitarium yesterday evening that Dr. Kidd had no interest in the matter and did not intend to contest the habeas corpus proceedings, and with this view of the matter Smythe had been turned over to the private detective.

Attorney William Harvey Jones, also representing the Smythe family, insisted, however, that the usual procedure of law be carried out and Smythe produced and Mr. McCleary agreed that in view of the fact there had been a misunderstanding Smythe would be produced in court at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Dr. Kidd, superintendent of the sanitarium said Smythe had not been able to communicate with any one since his wife brought him to Columbus last Saturday and that the habeas corpus proceedings were instituted by misguided friends.

NEWARK GIRL IS ATTACKED BY A COLUMBUS NEGRO

Policemen, fearing a race riot, headed off more than two score men, armed with guns and clubs, who started out last night in search of a negro who attacked Mrs. Helen Booher, a telephone operator at the Chittenden Hotel, in Sixth street, south of Broad, Columbus. Mrs. Booher's home is in Newark but she has been employed for several months in Columbus.

Mrs. Booher told Officers Dodd and Kezera she had left her work at 10:30 and was on her way home, 320 Oak street, when the negro began following her at Broad and Sixth. She said he threw her to the pavement, choked and bit her several times. He ran, taking her hat, when she screamed, she said.

A large crowd gathered and men of the neighborhood started out to find the negro.

Many a man with a large following is going the wrong way.

FOR SKINS AFFECTED BY WINDS AND WEATHER

This is the season when she who would have a spotless, lily-white, satin complexion should turn her thoughts to mercer's wax. A true friend of the winter girl. Nothing so effectively overcomes the despoiling effects of the winter winds and biting cold temperatures. The wax literally absorbs the chapped, reddened or coarsened cuticle, bringing forth a brand new skin, clear, soft and gloriously beautiful. An ounce of mercer's wax, obtained at any drugstore, applied nightly like cold cream, and washed off mornings will gradually improve the worst complexion.

She who coddles herself all day in an overheated house, and finds her skin flushed and "baby" as a consequence, can quickly freshen up at the evening by just bathing her face in a lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint of witch hazel. She'll find this most refreshing. It smooths out wrinkles and draws in the saggy tissue.—Adv.

Daily.

Daily.

From this time forth there is to be no lack of healthful and inspirational entertainment at all the Army Camps, National Guard camps. Under the skilled direction of the "Military Entertainment Council," just appointed by the Secretary of War, ample provision has been made, not only to provide the leisure hours of the soldiers with fine amusement of the higher class, but also to provide a way by which every friend of the soldier—and in these days and at such a time these friends are legion—may contribute toward the happiness of the boys in khaki.

The work of entertaining the soldiers has been consolidated under the "Military Entertainment Council," of which James Couzens, of Detroit, is chairman; with Harry P. Harrison, of Chicago, as chairman of the executive committee.

Under the Council, the Chautauqua tents and the Marc Klaw theaters are all to operate together, giving nightly entertainments. They will hereafter be known as "Liberty tents," "Liberty auditoriums," and "Liberty theaters."

The Military Entertainment Council is composed as follows: James Couzens, Detroit, chairman; F. W. Woolworth, New York; Asa G. Candler, Atlanta; Mrs. Josiah E. Cowles, Los Angeles; W. R. Dawes, Chicago; James A. Flaherty, Philadelphia; Myron T. Herrick, Cleveland; Mrs. Howard H. Spaulding, Jr., Chicago; Otto H. Kahn, New York; Major Henry Lee Higginson, Boston, and Dr. Frank W. Gunsaulus, Chicago.

Already the sixteen large "Liberty" theaters, each seating three thousand men, are completed. A tentative schedule for the rotation of various kinds of entertainment has been arranged, which provides in general that there shall be one week of standard plays by first class companies, followed by a week of a miscellaneous program of concerts, lectures, motion-pictures and local talent, of which plenty has been discovered among the boys themselves. The third week will be devoted to vaudeville, two performances a day, and the fourth week will be another miscellaneous week.

Four Broadway companies will present Broadway comedy successes, the plays already arranged for being: "Turn to the Right," "Cheating Cheaters," "Here Comes the Bride," and "Inside the Lines." Plans are already under way for the presentation of musical comedies and light operas, those under consideration being: "The Prince of Pilsen," "The Red Mill," "The Chocolate Soldier," "Robin Hood," and the Gilbert and Sullivan productions. E. F. Albee, the well known general manager of the Keith Circuit, has arranged four special vaudeville bills whose routings through the camps will be so arranged as to prevent an unvaried succession in any camp of any one kind of entertainment.

Through Harry P. Harrison, the Chautauquas have arranged to provide their best talent and most attractive features, including graphic lectures from men who have returned from "over there." The Chautauquas will also provide Jazz Bands, orchestras, the members of which will also sing and put on special stunts; historical and patriotic musical reviews and so on.

All this, of course, is going to cost money—a good deal of money. Take the Liberty Theaters, for instance. Their erection was paid for from appropriations by the government and supervised by the War Department Commission on Training Camp Activities. Each is 120 feet wide and 179 long. They are built of pine boards, unpainted, but faced with heavy building paper, making the sides wind tight. Complete ventilating systems have been installed and during the winter heat is supplied by steam and small stoves. Each theater has five large entrances and fifteen exits and a building, which seats comfortably 3,000 men, may be emptied in about one minute.

The stage of each theater is complete and modern; sixty-five feet wide and deep enough to stage any production. The floor of the auditorium is saucer-shaped and sloping, so that every seat in the house is a good one; the sections are so numbered that seats may be reserved in advance. The theater is placed on the highest point in each camp and nearby are grouped the camp post office, the library and the hostess-houses, making a small town within itself.

Nor is the utilitarian value of these theaters overlooked, for on the tall tower that comprises the stage-loft, the training soldiers have a point of vantage for wig-wag signals, giving them practice in long-distance signalling that is sure to prove useful in the practice of actual war.

Each theater is provided with a motion-picture booth, asbestos-lined, and the stage of all of them has an asbestos curtain. The lighting effects are similar to those used in city theaters.

Ordinarily, the cost of operating such a series of theaters, tents and auditoriums would be prohibitive, but the managers have met with such patriotic co-operation as to put these entertainments within the reach of every soldier.

Operating expense has been reduced to such a practical and patriotic basis that the actual cost of these performances to the soldiers will range from five cents to twenty-five cents a seat, with a majority at ten and fifteen cents.

Even at these reduced prices it is realized that there will be many soldiers who cannot afford to attend many performances, but even this has been provided for.

The Commission on Training Camp Activities has devised a book of coupon tickets in two sizes. One book sells for $1, and contains twenty coupons good for admission; another sells for $5 and contains tickets of admission to one hundred performances.

They are called "Smileage Books" and the coupons they contain are good for seats at any performance at any camp theater.

These books, which are to be placed on sale the week of January 28 all over the country, offer to those who are obliged to stay at home a fine chance to contribute to the camp life of the soldiers wholesome and cheerful entertainment. As gifts these "Smileage Books" will possess a distinctive character.

Each time the soldier tears coupons from his book he will in a sense touch hands with the person who sent it to him, and, of course, in a great many cases the donor will remain an unknown benefactor though there is a place on every coupon for the giver to sign his name, thus adding a personal touch to his gift.

No doubt, of course, the most popular soldiers will receive the most "Smileage Books," but this should not matter, for it is characteristic of the American soldier to share his abundance with his mates. It is, indeed, an army axiom that "everything is common property around a camp except money, and all you have to do is to ask the next man for that." Raymond B. Fosdick, Chairman of the War Department Commission on Training Camp Activities, is enthusiastic about this newly created entertainment plan. He writes:

"I remember standing on the streets of Columbus shortly after Villa had devastated the village, watching our 5,000 soldiers come over the railroad tracks into town in the evening. There was absolutely nothing for them to do there—no movies, no libraries, no place to write letters, no homes to which they could go—nothing but saloons and a well-organized Red Light district.

"In this war we are driving those vicious agencies out of business and setting up clean entertainment in their place. This has a direct bearing on the health of our army, and is an absolute necessity in maintaining the morale of our men."

And this testimony is amply supported by Secretary of War Baker, who, writing to Chairman Fosdick, declares:

"A proper amount of clean, wholesome entertainment contributes largely to the happiness of our soldiers in camp and is fundamental in supplementing their physical and military training."

"To make such entertainment readily available for all soldiers is one of the most important duties of the War Commission for Training Camp Activities, and the work must be continued and extended."

"I am glad to know that all entertainment projects will be consolidated and managed directly by your Commission."

"Your plan of selling Smileage Books seems to be an admirable way of financing this worthy enterprise, because it gives to the individual citizen an easy opportunity of furnishing the means for numerous good times to his soldier friends."

Very truly yours,
(Signed) Newton D. Baker,
Secretary of War.

So, the Military Entertainment Council, which has so successfully worked out a perfect co-ordination of all the entertainment problems at the camps, has done its part. It will provide entertainments which, under ordinary circumstances, would cost $1.50 or $2.00, and the highest price charged the soldier will be 25 cents. To make this possible the citizens do their part by providing the boys of the camps the Smileage Books that will admit them to the shows.

There are sixteen theaters each seating 3,000 soldiers, nightly. This calls for 48,000 coupons of admission a night, or 336,000 coupons a week. Very largely, these must be the gift of the civilians to the soldiers. That is why the Military Entertainment Council looks forward to the sale of at least 1,000,000 Smileage Books when once the campaign has started. At least so many books must be sold in the week of January 28, which marks the first drive, but thereafter the Smileage Books will always be on sale and any time a stay-at-home thinks of the hard work that our boys are going through to fit themselves to fight our battles in the greatest war in history, he can purchase a book or a handful of books and send them to the nearest camp—even though he hasn't a boy of his own in the service—attain that he is adding to the joy of life; helping some soldiers to go about their work the more cheerfully and gladly, because knowing that back of them, outside the camp, is a great body of patriotic citizenry eager and willing to do all that may be done to make the training period less arduous, less monotonous and more healthful.

The sale of the Smileage Books will be carried on throughout the country. In the cities the work will have the assistance of members of the Rotary Clubs, Rotarians representing nearly fifty cities having recently met in Washington to offer their services to the Smileage campaign.

In the smaller cities, towns and country districts, the work will have the organized assistance of the Y. M. C. A. and Chautauqua managers, who are prominently represented on the War Service Committee, of which Harry P. Harrison is executive chairman. The Committee is co-operating with the Entertainment Council in charge of the campaign for the sale of Smileage Books.

ALHAMBRA

Tonight and Tomorrow. Unusual scenes in the studio of World-Pictures. Brady made the new World-Picture "The Volunteer," an exceedingly unique offering. These scenes show the studio activities at their height—stars working before the camera, scenes being shifted, directors directing scenes and the stars at play when off duty. No more fascinating studio scenes than these have ever been filmed. Even Wm. A. Brady himself appears in these scenes.

Madge Evans, the World's kiddle star, and Henry Hull, the famous stage star, are the stars of this production. They both have parts that are very congenial and that give them splendid opportunities for the display of their splendid talents.

The story of "The Volunteer" centers around Madge Evans herself. Madge appears under her own name and as just exactly what she is—the most clever child actress on the screen today and a star in World-Pictures.

AUDITORIUM

"The Co-Respondent." Jewel Productions, Inc., one of the most important distributing concerns in the entire film industry, which was that she—and no one else, because of the circumstances of her near-marriage, has been named as "The Co-Respondent." She faces then the choice of seeing herself shown up to her managing editor as the co-respondent and losing her chance of happiness or her career come to an abrupt end through a label suit against the paper. How her difficulties are solved and how the public in the end gets the whole truth and from the paper, forms a most absorbing and unusual story.

The schedule this evening runs 6:30, 8:00 and 9:30.

"The Man Who Came Back." Patrons of the Auditorium Theatre, tomorrow evening, will peek into the home life of a multi-millionaire, glimpse at the cabaret atmosphere of San Francisco, visit an opium joint in Shanghai, live on a money, in Honolulu, and then travel back to New York in the home of wealth. The program announces these as five episodes and settings in the making known to William A. Brady as "The Man Who Came Back."

Also it is announced as an American play by Jules Eckert Goodman, based on John Fleming Wilson's like-named story. Also again it will have to be

Harry Sleight, Irving White, William Blaisdell, Dorothy Bernard, Alma Chester, Cora Calkins, Dorothy Bernard, Alice Lorraine, Lavinia Shannon, Henry Davis, Fuller Golden, Marion Berry, Frank Hosen, Wm. Hamilton, Frank Young, Lillian Moore, etc. The seats were placed on sale this morning and from the rush for seats, it is predicted that a good house will see one of the greatest dramas of the present season at the Auditorium tomorrow evening.

"Over Here." The start of the cantonment whose construction is shown in "Over Here" was a blue print, on which the location of all the buildings, railroad, etc., was carefully laid out. Next we see the 3,000 acres of land, selected as the site for the cantonment, before the construction began. It was necessary to construct four and one-tenth miles of track from the Missouri-Pacific railroad to the camp and this trackage was completed in three weeks. Six thousand workmen built the city in which 40,000 men were to be housed, in 53 days. We see one of the roads built at the camp, before and after work was started on it. We also see a part of the 34,000,000 feet of lumber used in putting up the camp. Twelve hundred buildings were erected at the camp and 4,000 carloads of materials were used in the work. Twenty-seven miles of sewer were laid and we see quantities of the pipe piled up. We also see the construction work on the big septic tank. Twenty-three miles of pipe carry two and a half million gallons of water daily to the camp and this water is pumped across the Arkansas River and boosted over the hills by a huge pumping station into 200,000 gallon reserve tanks.

This wonderful two reel World feature is an added attraction at the Auditorium Friday and Saturday.

"The Pride of New York." Don is more than an ordinary dog. That's why Don is now in the east instead of lazily passing his time out in California. The owner of Don is George Walsh, one of the galaxy of stars of the Fox Film organization. A little over a year ago when George was making pictures out at the Fox studios in Los Angeles, an Indian presented him with a four months old St. Bernard. When George decided to return east to make "The Pride of New York," he thought Don would be in the way in New York—might get in the traffic and get killed, so the day he left Los Angeles he sent Don to a ranch 25 miles from Los Angeles.

George wasn't in New York two days before he received a letter telling him that Don had returned to Los Angeles the morning after he left and was found sitting on George's doorstep barking and making noise.

"That was enough for me," declared George, as Don lay sprawled out on the studio floor. "I sent for him immediately."

"If this dog thinks that much of me why I intend to keep him with me. Affection like that is really wonderful."

"The Pride of New York," together with "His Hidden Purpose," will be the Auditorium feature for Sunday amusement seekers at the Auditorium.

"Daddy Long Legs." Henry Miller will send "Daddy Long Legs" on tour this season to play the larger cities of New England and the West. This organization will be one of the strongest Mr. Miller has ever sent out and will include players selected from the three companies which played the Jean Webster comedy last season. "Daddy Long Legs" has had a wonderful success in New York, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia and the larger cities of this country and Canada and in London, where it ran at the Duke of York's Theatre for a year. The comedy was also seen in Australia last winter. The engagement here will be at the Auditorium theatre soon.

Veils Make-up Secrets. In his second Paramount picture, "The Clever Mrs. Carrfax," Julian Eltinge will give away some of the secrets of make-up and, incidentally, of what's behind the scenes. This picture he has to make about forty changes of costume from masculine to feminine, and the public will be initiated into the mysteries of the dressing table and make-up box. This will be virtually the first time the actual transformation in all its details possible of exposition has been shown to the public gaze.

"Girl of My Heart." Eda Ann Luke who will play the leading role in "Girl of My Heart," Perry J. Kelly's comedy which will be given at the Auditorium Friday, Feb. 8th, with matinee and evening performances, is an actress and singer of marked ability. That her talents are diversified is evidenced by the fact that she has played with equal facility the exacting roles of Shakespearean heroines, dramatic leads and musical comedy parts.

It is in musical comedy, however, that she excels, and for the past four years her activities have been devoted solely to this work. She will be remembered for her admirable efforts in "Prince of Pilsen" and "My Home Town Girl." In "Girl of My Heart," Miss Luke is seen to the best advantage in the frivolous, merry, charmer, whose amusing escapades furnish the motive for this diverting comedy.

Auditorium Notes. Newark theatre-goers are assured a real treat when Anna Held, pride of Paris and France's choicest gift to the American stage—the best dressed woman in the universe—approached by none in her fascinating art, and her own gorgeous and bewildering musical comedy, "Follow Me," comes to the Auditorium.

Joe Lane is in Newark making final arrangements for the appearance at the Auditorium of the latest musical comedy success, "Girl of My Heart," which comes February 8th for a matinee and evening performance.

For Friday and Saturday picture comes another most remarkable program at the Auditorium in Charles Ray, who is seen in the Paramount feature "Son of His Father," which is always clever and attractive and in this he is great and the play has interest

LOCATING GUN-FIRE.

One of the most interesting phases of war science is locating the enemy's batteries. The situation of these is constantly shifting. The guns are so camouflaged with foliage and painted substances that they cannot always be placed by air-observers or aerial photography.

When a new gun lifts up its voice from some unknown location and begins "strafing" our boys the technical men begin to observe the sound-waves resulting from the original discharge. A station located nearest the front line will get the explosion first. Then by comparing the exact instant when it was heard, with the instant when a receiving station in the rear gets it, and figuring upon the relative distance of the two stations, the speed with which sound is traveling at that particular time can be precisely determined.

The speed of sound varies with wind and condition of atmosphere. After this speed is determined, the distance of that gun can be closely estimated. That, of course, does not show direction. That is to be had only by observations from a number of sound-receiving stations.

Then the distance is figured from each rear station, and lines are swung around through the possible arcs that could include the gun. These must be some point where they would all meet at the correct distance from the receiving sound stations. That point should locate the gun.

It is claimed that they can often be figured down to 50 feet. It is said in the Messines fighting, 63 German guns were located in one day largely by these sound-receiving methods. Once located, a well-aimed shell takes care of them.

So far, neither the editor of The Ladies' Home Journal, the president of the kindergarten union, or the director of the mothers' clubs has been appointed to run the war, but it is hoped that congress recognizes their claims.

The chances are that Dr. Garfield about now wishes he were back under the college elms giving an expedition of the one hundredth and twenty-fifth line of Virgil's "Aeneid."

The Germans aren't going to maintain any army in Russia to threaten its independence, but, of course, are merely going to let some soldiers enjoy their vacation there.

Big Russia with its hundreds of millions is too exhausted to fight; while little Serbia, about four-fifths dead, still fights on.

When the German soldiers find their government has lied to them, all it has to do is to tell two more lies to back it up.

CODE CIPHER REVEALS THAT BERLIN ORDERED DESTRUCTION OF LUSITANIA

The cipher message which proved that Berlin directed the sinking of the Lusitania is made public for the first time in the World's Work magazine, published today. John R. Rathom, editor of the Providence Journal, which exposed numerous German plots in this country during the last three years, in an article giving in detail the methods he used to unearth the work of the German agents, quotes this message from his files, and explains how it was decoded. The message, in cipher, reads as follows:

From—Berlin Foreign Office.
To Botschaft, Washington
669 (44-W)—Welt nineteen-fifteen 175 29 1 stop 175 1 2 stop dorch 622
2 4 stop 19 7 18 stop LIX 11 3
4 5 6.

This cipher message came through from Nauen, Germany, to Sayville, Long Island, at 2 o'clock on the morning of April 29, 1915, and was caught by the operator at a wireless station maintained by the Providence Journal. It was especially interesting because it followed none of the codes which they had previously observed. It was evidently important, because through before the German station succeeded in overcoming the unfavorable static conditions which prevailed that morning. Every attempt to decipher it failed, until somebody with a line on the internal activities of the German Embassy remembered that during that morning Prince Hatzfeldt, of the Embassy Staff, had been looking for a New York World "Almanac." The first two words of the message, "Welt" (German for "World") 1915, supplied the clue. Following the other numbers in the message as representing page, line, and word in the World "Almanac."

THE STRUGGLING FARMER.

When the farmer complains of the scarcity and high-price of labor, he is commonly told that he should fit himself out with machines that will replace hand-work. But if he has not yet paid off the mortgage on his land, where will he get the money to buy the machines that he imperatively needs?

It may be said that the farmer who finds himself in this condition is usually the victim of his own unscientific and unprogressive methods. Yet if he started without a dollar, and never had a chance to take any technical education, he can scarcely be considered to blame. He may be an alien who understands English but poorly, and could not grasp any agricultural school course. But anyway he has good muscle and industry. If he could but have the benefit of modern tools, he could raise a lot of food.

The needs of every willing and industrious farmer in the neighborhood of Newark should be considered by the business men. If a man has shown himself to be trustworthy, and wants to buy a tractor or other machine, there ought to be someone who would lend him money on it at a fair interest rate.

Of course a borrower should be expected to make a moderate cash payment on his machine, and he must show himself to be reliable enough to care for the property. Under such conditions many farmers lend money to their more-struggling neighbors, and find the investment pays.

But to provide all the machinery needed in such cases, much capital will have to be loaned by banks and co-operative associations. They can handle the proposition advantageously, and can give careful supervision to their loans that the arrangements calls for. If a man occasionally fails to make his payments, the revenue of the business should cover the small loss. If we are to develop our farm resources, there must be this willingness to help the struggling man.

The Germans have been taught to believe the Americans are all windbags, but let us hope it is a dangerous kind of wind when our gas shells begin to drop.

However, under the influence of a choice cigar, almost anyone thinks he could run the war better than it is being done.

WAR BREAD.

(Pittsburgh Gazette Times.)
The effect of the new regulations announced by Food Administrator Hoover will be to eliminate white bread in the homes of persons properly conscious of their duty. While the mixing of white flour with other meals is not mandatory upon housewives, the spirit of the ruling requires it, that will be sufficient for all but a few. Those few, who still resent governmental interference with their domestic scheme and who cannot see the relation of their daily consumption to the war, will find it difficult not to carry out Hoover's request, because they will be unable to purchase white flour alone. The blunt fact is the country is put on war bread. The people should welcome the innovation which simply puts us on an equality with those whose cause we have espoused.

Adding a wheatless day and requesting a wheatless meal every day are the other new restrictions on for 1915, the Journal men decoded the message as follows: "Warn Lusitania passengers (s) through press not voyage across the Atlantic." Two days later the German Embassy printed the now historic advertisement in the New York Times warning travelers not to cross the Atlantic, and a week later, on May 7th, the Lusitania was sunk by a German submarine.

A dramatic touch of suggestion of death in the message lies in the fact that the word not in it is taken from the first sentence of an obituary of the late Joseph Pulitzer, former owner of the World, which publishes the "Almanac." And another grim bit of irony in it is that the last four words were taken from an advertisement of a well-known marine motor headed "The Seal of Safety at Sea."

Two words of the message are spelled out in German. They are "warn," which in English is "warn," and "dorch," which means "through." The word "Botschaft" is German for "Embassy."

The German Ambassador, immediately after the sinking of the Lusitania, declared that the advertisement he had published in the New York papers was inserted on his own responsibility and had no particular reference to the Lusitania. As printed, this advertisement mentioned no ship by name. But the cipher message now reveals the fact that he deliberately lied, and that Berlin directed the whole tragedy.

Incidentally, Mr. Rathom's article adds that on the evening after the Lusitania was sunk, when friends of Von Bernstorff declared that he was overwhelmed with grief and secluded in his rooms in a New York hotel, he was in reality giving a dinner in the apartments of a friend in New York and there toasted the commander of the U-boat which sunk the liner.

grain consumption, neither of which will result in hardship. Though the announcement reads that none of a number of articles should be eaten on Monday and Wednesday nor at the daily wheatless meal, conscientious persons will order their affairs just as they would if it had read shall. And this applies to the further regulation of meat eating as well.

The necessity for the new measures has been set forth in reports of food scarcity in England. The falling off in arrivals of ships, due partly to traffic congestion in America and partly to the submarine, has brought many British unexpectedly to actual hunger. Germany can derive small comfort from this, as it does not confirm any blind Teutonic faith in U-boat warfare; it is a temporary condition that the passing of winter, reopening of choked railroad lines and unimpaired sailing for ships will remedy. But it is a very serious temporary condition, nevertheless, and Americans must do all they can to free the British people of its hardships. They are asked to do this at a trifling cost; the sacrifice of white bread, which is of doubtful war-time wisdom, anyhow.

The rules applying to manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers of wheat products conceivably will protect the consumer and enable the government to obtain what is needed for shipment abroad. The intention is to supply every city, town and district with its proper share, so there ought to be no disturbance of trade in outlying places where the people might otherwise buy in quantities not warranted by their immediate needs. The aim is equitable treatment, but where it is not achieved the people have recourse to the state food administration.

In all cases of difficulty in obtaining food the people are taking crippled transportation into consideration. Many inconveniences of the past several weeks have been due altogether to tardy deliveries of freight, for which the weather has been partly to blame. The end of winter, not far off, will do away with some of the housekeeper's trials. Obedience to the letter and spirit of the wheat and meat rules will be less difficult for some through the knowledge that they are temporary, but the co-operation of the great majority will be assured by their desire to share the burden with the British and French and "to do something to help win the war."

LARGER FOOD-SAVING.

(Providence Journal.)
Conditions in England and France reported to Washington by the American food commission are found to call for considerably greater sacrifices on the part of our people than they have been asked so far to make.

Commissioner Hoover has estimated that the saving of wheat under the restrictions voluntarily accepted by the people of the United States is not more than 50,000,000 bushels and may be no more than half that figure. Our specialists in Europe calculate that in order to prevent widespread distress among the populations of our allies and the actual weakening of their battle lines, it is necessary for the United States to export 90,000,000 bushels before September 1 next.

Consequently, the administration is now said to have in mind the issuance of a presidential proclamation enforcing three wheatless days a week. It is also reported that there is a serious shortage of fats, to meet which, it is suggested by the food commission, the United States should abstain from meat, as well as wheat, three days a week. And since public eating places have not and may to the spirit of the food administration's regulations, the public is led to expect sterner measures to enforce the doing of their share.

Public opinion will back up Commissioner Hoover in whatever plans he finds it necessary to carry out because the people have confidence in his understanding of his problem and in his capacity to deal with it.

Congress is in its glory when it's investigatin' instead of legislatin'.—Baltimore Sun.

AN UNFAIR ATTACK.

(Philadelphia Record.)
Senator Chamberlain and Colonel Neppington, the British military writer, evidently hold very similar views regarding the best way in which to weaken the people of a nation engaged in war. Their theory seems to be that this can be most effectively done by charging that every one in authority is incompetent, and to support their accusation by dwelling upon a number of minor defects, relatively unimportant in themselves, but formidable in number when the muck pile has been well raked and a willing ear has been given to every bit of unfavorable gossip. There may be some excuse in doing this for the English writer who holds no official position, but there can be no hope for the man who is the chairman of the Senate Military Committee, and who should, therefore, feel that he is under a heavy obligation to defend his Government, not to attack it.

The crying sin of Senator Chamberlain's long screed is that it places everything in a false perspective. The great outstanding fact of the United States' participation in the war is that in an incredibly short time it has turned from the paths of peace, mobilized its navy with astonishing rapidity, placed over a million and a half men in training and sent an army to France that is numbered by the hundreds of thousands. It is perfectly immaterial whether this army is supplied with machine guns and field pieces of American manufacture or not. That detail and all others like it were settled by the conferences held with the British and French missions sent here, and the United States is carrying out the plans then made to the entire satisfaction of all allies.

Senator Chamberlain ignores the immense and most creditable achievements of the Government and throws the limelight upon such a harrowing incident as a soldier boy dying in distressing circumstances in a far away army camp, whose father (a strictly anonymous person) details the story at extraordinary length. Such a blunder might happen in a Philadelphia, New York or Chicago hospital and excite only passing comment. The Senator seizes upon it and similar regrettable but almost inevitable shortcomings in a great emergency to prove his theory that the Secretary of War is not fit for his job. Fair-minded persons will see the injustice and absurdity of such a mode of attack. It carefully suppresses every good thing that has been done and puts all the emphasis upon what are really trifles in comparison with the magnitude of the operations under way and projected.

A peculiar flagrant feature of the Chamberlain method is that the Administration is placed in a position where it cannot adequately defend itself without revealing military secrets. The United States is doing its share in this war upon lines largely laid down by its allies. It cannot reveal all these to the world without injuring the common cause. It must do its work quickly and as effectively as possible, and it is absolutely inevitable that it should make mistakes. Plenty of these have been made, but when one recalls other struggles in which this country has engaged, the hideous blunders of the civil war, the shocking scandals of the Spanish-American war and similar past episodes, the errors of the present contest so far seem negligible in comparison. Senator Chamberlain knows this, of course, but to try to magnify mole hills into mountains. Let the full truth about everything be told, of course; but let each little error and oversight be judged in the light of the perfectly enormous results already achieved.

STANDARDIZED WINTERS.

(Cleveland Plain Dealer.)
Now that the mathematicians have taken the winter in hand we may hope, at least, for a logical and perhaps comforting solution of the prolonged reign of cold. The weather bureau tells us that we have been afflicted with the longest cold wave in the history of the weather service, but it fails to tell us when to expect amends for the overdose. Here is where the mathematician comes into play. He declares that in the cold-belt states we will have used up our average winter allowance of 4,000 degrees of cold by the end of the present month. Then, of the second half of the winter proves but little warmer than the average winter, we would still have the cold-weather on record—official record. If the second half is warm as May or June, the winter cold might be reduced to the usual average.

The mathematician, using several forms of calculation, figures that the low temperature must very materially relax on or before February 11. He declares that after that date there can be no certainty of cold, unless nature has completely overturned her long-established rules and processes. Then he promptly confutes the theory that the release of nitrogen and greater consumption of oxygen in the world war has chilled the higher atmosphere and possibly effected a change in the climate. He declares that man never has affected the climate, and from all the evidences that time can offer, never will.

Consequently, there is no hope for a standardized winter in which the 4,000 degrees of cold might be agreeably and equitably distributed—a consumption quite beyond the scope of mathematics.

INCIDENT AT THE GROCERY.

(Ohio State Journal.)
A woman at a grocery store hesitating over two packages of breakfast cereals. One was oatmeal, and the other cracked wheat. She didn't know which she wanted. She finally appealed to the grocer's clerk as to which was the better. But the clerk would not help her out. He noncommittally said "Some like one and, on the other hand, some like the other." Finally the woman said, well, she guessed she'd take the cracked wheat.

We stood and marvelled that anyone whose preferences seemed to be so slight should choose wheat when our country begs us to use everything else first. The woman looked intelligent. She had probably signed a food pledge promising to help conserve the wheat. Didn't she care, or was she only thoughtful? We thought once of stepping up to her and saying, "If it makes so little difference to you, please take the oatmeal," but we were afraid of being snubbed, or worse. Or why could not the grocer's clerk have told a patriotic lie and said that, all things being equal, the oatmeal was probably more highly thought of in the country? If there are we will soon be buying our wheat by the card system.

Spirit of the Press

1920—That's All.
Theodore Roosevelt is opening at Washington his battle for the next Republican nomination for president of the United States. He makes a tense of fighting for a more vigorous prosecution of the war. In reality it is party leadership he seeks—a party leadership and the presidency. No one questions the right of Roosevelt to be a candidate for president, now or at any other time. But Roosevelt has no moral right to drag his personal ambition into a war situation which demands of every American singleness of purpose and a disregard of partisan influences. This war cannot be won by play of politics. America's enviable position at the present moment has been won as much by Republican support as by Demo-

Be Patient.
There should be no uneasiness in this country because things are not going as fast on the Western front as we would like to see progress made. The whole program of fighting has been changed since the days of the Rebellion. The flower of the military genius of the world is trying to secure results with the loss of the minimum of men. Let everybody help the women along in their fine aspirations to win the war by helping to provide the funds. Who these women are we don't know, but whoever they are, may God bless them everyone for their patriotic thoughtfulness.—Ohio State Journal.

WOMAN "WAACS" LEARN RAPIDLY

Master Telegraph Codes and Prove Efficient Operators.

WORK NEAR BATTLE FRONT

Handle Messages for the Ordnance Department and Acquire New Vocabulary in Order to Do It—Make Few Mistakes in Handling Stores Which Comprise Something Like 23,000 Separate Items.

The following, on the work of British women at the front, appeared in a recent issue of the London Daily Telegraph from a correspondent "at the base in France."

Now every signaller was a very fine Waac, and a very fine Waac was she—

Happy, happy shall we be. There's none so fair as can compare With the W. A. A. C.

There is a considerable amount of musical talent and an abounding sense of fun among the girls who are cheerfully fulfilling the tasks they have taken up. This you judge whenever you attend one of their parties. The lines quoted are from some patter verses, on the plan of "Old King Cole," in which unit administrators, area controllers and captains of army signallers of a particular corps came in for good-humored banter by name. The whole corps always speaks of its members as "Waacs," and, unless a standard dictionary of the future gravely admits the word and its origin to its columns there will be trouble for the students yet to be of the war. Signallers, it may be said, are an important section of this new arm, and they are especially proud that they are allowed to wear the blue and white armband that, under the king's regulations, is distinctive of the telegraphic service.

At one base, through which messages of supreme importance are constantly passing, the women are pronounced to be doing excellent work. All have had the full training of the post office and are experts with the Wheatstone automatic system. But some specialized training has been necessary, for certain codes have been adopted and absolute accuracy is essential when single letters or figures are invested with weighty significance and the smallest error might have the gravest results. Very efficient, too, is the telephone service, employing, as at home, a number of highly trained young women. Scotland, it may be said, has furnished a large proportion of the girls carrying out these responsibilities.

A New Vocabulary. This question of codes and letters and figures constitutes a bigger difficulty than the outsider would imagine. When a staff officer escorted our party through a great depot of the ordnance department it was quickly realized that these women have to acquire what is literally a new vocabulary to them. Now, no shop in the world contains the variety of items and parts and sections that this arm of the service brings together and issues. Its very magnitude in the earlier days, even, of the war led to the adoption of a code of letters and figures to denote its division, at least, where thousands of requisitions pour in daily. Thanks to this method it became possible to utilize the help of French women long before the possibility of securing feminine assistance from home loomed into view. The intelligent French girl might not possess a rudimentary acquaintance with our language, but she could understand, that all requisitions bearing a certain letter and figure were to be brought together in the rack provided, and thus a first stage of sorting could be effected.

By special favor a glimpse was accorded of the stupendous labor by which the guns are kept at their tireless work. If there is a subject on which the average girl clerk is less likely to be informed than upon another it is surely that which touches the technicalities and working parts of modern artillery. Yet here are women who, in a very few weeks, have learned enough to know in which direction to send forward requisitions concerning 9.2 guns, or trench mortars, or the mightiest howitzers. It was not always thus, and mistakes even now are made that recall the favorite story here of the young lady who, when a demand came down for armored hose, gayly referred it to the authorities charged with the issue of clothing. But even in a department which stores something like 23,000 separate items the mistakes have now come to be few and far between.

Varieties of Work. Less exacting at the outset is the work upon which they are entering at the clothing stores, where it is estimated that four women will take the place of every three men formerly engaged there. It is a department of fabulous figures; indeed, the bare mention in tons of the first supplies of winter equipment brought over is almost staggering. Greatcoats, waterproofs, warm underwear, boots and accessories fill stacks that would seem inexhaustible. Even buttons and the ribbons that belong to the more generally bearded male make up a sufficiently impressive total, while there are armlets, indicative of specialized work—the white, green and red of the offensive gas service is one of them—that call for a whole series of wide shelves to contain them. Kitchen equipment, every sort of brush that enters into domestic use, enamel ware and hardware, electrical plant, lamps, stoves, baskets, heavy crockery, are but a few of the things here ranged which it is intended to place in women's charge. It will not be, perhaps, as easy a matter to issue them, for there is a regulation system of catalogue entry, and the exact meanings of vouchers referring to, say, "sponge—bath," or "bath—sponge," are not always obvious until the peculiarities of definition have been mastered.

Again, the women were to be seen, in an enormous depot concerned with the repair of all sorts of motor vehicles. Its floor space suggests acres as the unit of measurement, and in happier times it was a vast lute factory. Every known pattern of motor engine is used by the army, and it follows, therefore, that the spare parts and the details employed involve a classifying, and a sorting out of extraordinary complexity. But the system has been well devised and the mechanic engaged on a London General Omnibus company's chassis will not find his work hindered by being given the various items as used in the Wolseley make.

Only a Beginning. It is not desirable at this juncture to quote the figures that would indicate the extent to which women have replaced men, releasing them to go to the actual front. What may be said, however, is that this advance guard of "Waacs" is but a small company beside those for whom provision is being made in the near future. Repeatedly were camps shown that are coming to completion in which there will be accommodation for 350 to 500 women, and occupied at present by a bare tenth of those numbers. There is one, amid men's base camps, where cooks and waitresses are most urgently wanted.

DARING ICE YACHTER FLIRTS WITH DEATH

Flirting with death is nothing new to the pretty miss who skippers the speedy ice boat. She considers spinning over the ice at the speed of a racing automobile sport and it probably is if one has nerves steady enough to stand it, for it requires nerves of steel and the utmost skill to steer this boat over the ice-covered rivers. There is always the risk of running amuck in a fog that may come up from the ocean at any minute, of shooting into another equally speedy ice yacht or of dropping into icy water if one is unfortunate enough to strike a patch of open river.

Serene in her faith in an ever-present good fortune, this miss is smiling happily as she starts her yacht for a spin along the Shrewsbury, inside the Jersey capes.

STRANGE CRAFT DEAD WHALE

An Adventurous Fisherman Secured a Prize.

Farmers along the bay shore near Broadkill Beach, near Milton, Del., were prepared to protect their homes with their lives when a long, low, mysterious craft made its appearance up the bay. In the early morning light it could be plainly seen coming in toward the shore above Cedar Beach.

Then it stopped, and finally Charlie Reed, an adventuresome fisherman, started out to it and found it to be a dead whale, a prize of the first magnitude.

It stranded near the Frank Waples farm at Slaughter Neck, and was viewed by hundreds, who came from all parts of Lower Delaware in automobiles and wagons to see it. In the morning Reed, with a small launch, landed it at the Lewes fisheries and will have it made into oil.

It is estimated that at the present price of oil Reed will realize several hundred dollars from it. The whale was 57 feet long, and is supposed to have been shot in mid-ocean.

Meet After Many Years.

T. R. Trotter, city clerk of Pomona, Cal., and his sister, Mrs. F. L. Jesscott of Philadelphia, met recently after 42 years' separation. Trotter left his sister in Cork, Ireland, to become a sailor and within a few years lost track of her. He has been city clerk in Pomona for twenty years. A month ago Mrs. Jesscott picked up a Los Angeles newspaper and read a story containing the name of her brother. She immediately communicated with him.

Our Boys and Girls

The child who gets into trouble because he does not know what to do with himself, is perhaps aware that things are not just right with him, even though he does not know just how to remedy the situation. It is distinctly the duty of the parent to discover the source of the restlessness and apply a remedy. One must make sure that the child is in good health and that he is provided with the opportunity to do interesting things that are worth while.

If children under these circumstances behave themselves acceptably we must take their conduct as a matter of course and not give them overmuch praise for what they cannot help, anymore than we should blame them under the same circumstances. We may urge them to greater exertion or we may caution them to be more careful, but good and bad are not the quality of their everyday acts, no matter how pleasing or displeasing the consequences may be to our feelings.

Every Day Etiquette

"Is it necessary to send a present when one has been invited to a church wedding and not to the reception?" inquired Marie.

"It is not necessary to send a gift unless you have been invited to the reception," said her mother.

RUFFLED NET. Ruffled net frocks are decidedly serviceable and simple and yet at the same time dainty, for the little girl's party frock. They are often made with little bodies of satin or silk, cut rather fantastically over the underbody of net. The skirts are usually composed of a series of ruffles, one above the other, on a moderately full foundation skirt.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Bridget Radigan.

Mrs. Bridget Radigan, aged 65 years, died on Tuesday evening at 10.30 o'clock at the City Hospital, following an operation on Sunday.

The deceased was born in London, England, but has made Newark her home since she was 14 years old. She has been a faithful and consistent member of St. Francis de Sales church, and her entire family of husband and five children have preceded her in death. She is survived by a niece, Mrs. Josephine Jordan of Cleveland and two grandchildren, Ruth and Grace O'Neil.

The body was taken to the home of Mr. Edward O'Neil in 101 Buena Vista street.

Mrs. W. S. Rice.

Miss Jennie E. Peterson was born Feb. 11, 1854, died Jan. 29, aged 63 years, 11 months and 18 days. She was united in marriage to Wilson Shannon Rice, Nov. 7, 1876, and to this union was born ten children, three preceding her in death. She leaves to mourn her loss a husband, seven children and eleven grandchildren. The children are Mrs. Rial Priest, of 246 Race street, at whose home she died, Franklin and Roy of this city, Willie of Rocky Fork, Mrs. Arthur McMullen of Vanatta, Mrs. Albert Neighbarger of Mt. Carmel and Clyde of the home. A short funeral service will be held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. R. Priest, Friday morning at 9 o'clock. Interment at Mt. Carmel.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to express our sincere appreciation of the kindly sympathy extended by the many friends and acquaintances of our dear mother—Mrs. S. C. Matthews—during her illness and last sad rites. Particularly do we appreciate the assistance of Mrs. Montgomery, Mrs. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Weaver and Mrs. Wygle; also, the tender words and thoughts expressed by Rev. Mr. Walters.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to thank the many friends and neighbors for their kind assistance in the recent bereavement of our wife and daughter, and for the beautiful floral emblems; Rev. B. M. O'Donovan for his kind and consoling words, and C. T. Egan for his direction of the obsequies.

Earl Fry, Mr. and Mrs. James Dublin and Children.

Life is just one thing after another. Because of cold weather we are promised an ice famine for next summer.

"The Germans eating bread that is one third sawdust," said General Michael Ryan of Cincinnati, at the meat packers' convention in Chicago, "are desperate, and they'll soon be taking desperate steps to get peace—a peace, of course, without indemnities."

"The Germans first plunged the world into war and now they want to get out without punishment. Why, the rats are worse than little Tommy."

"Where's Tommy?" said the mother on Christmas morning.

"I'm almost afraid to tell you, ma'am," said the cook.

"Jane, where is he?" his mother repeated.

"Would you believe it, ma'am? groaned the cook. 'He's locked himself in the pantry, where he's got the mice, and he says he's going to eat and eat and eat until he's too sick to be whipped.'"

Beauty of the Mouth.

The expression of the mouth is the truest index of disposition and temperament. If women would include the mouth in their ardent quest for beauty and the hair, they would discover that the hair expression would gain the desired effect in a much shorter time. Close scrutiny would reveal many imperfections. Talking animatedly before a mirror quickly proves how many unnecessary grimaces are made, their general effect on the contour of the mouth and the appearance of the face in general.

It is not a simple matter to control the features, but relaxation, letting all tensing of the muscles go, will assist materially. Screwing the lips around, biting them nervously, pulling back the muscles of the cheeks and tightening the lips, are all unsightly habits. The hanging of the lower jaw or keeping the mouth open, are other practices that give a foolish expression to the most intelligent face and tend to disfigure the mouth.

The relieve the nervous tension about the mouth a series of gentle relaxing manipulations are of great benefit. Choose bedtime for this work, or leisure time. Lay the head back comfortably, relax the muscles of the face and inhale and exhale with deep breaths. Then, with the first and second fingers and the thumbs, gently encircle the lips and chin, picking the flesh and quickly releasing it to coax away the tension and fatigue. After a few minutes of this, take the fingers and push the middle of the broadest portion of the lips together, to cultivate the enviable beauty bow. Push on one side and then the other alternately.

On the lower lip, gently push forward the center if the lips are inclined to be too thin or flat. Drawing the fingers back and forth over the lips will remove the lines which set about the mouth.

THE HUN SPIRIT. The Germans eating bread that is one third sawdust," said General Michael Ryan of Cincinnati, at the meat packers' convention in Chicago, "are desperate, and they'll soon be taking desperate steps to get peace—a peace, of course, without indemnities."

ELECTED DELEGATES WORLD'S CONFERENCE SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

At a recent session of the Columbia Union Conference executive committee of Seventh Day Adventists, held in Washington, D. C., Elders
E. E. Slade of Mt. Vernon, A. R.
Bell of Toledo, W. W. Miller of Springfield, J. H. Behrens of Cincinnati, and Prof. N. S. Ashton of Mt. Vernon, were elected delegates to the World's Conference of Seventh Day Adventists, to be held March 29 to April 21 in San Francisco, Cal.

The Columbia Union conference, with headquarters at Washington, D. C., is a conference of conferences operating in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey, and the District of Columbia. Twelve such union conferences operate in all the United States and Canada.

When it is known that Seventh Day Adventists, who only came into existence 72 years ago, are proclaiming the message of the near-return of Christ in 80 centuries, using orally 123 languages, and publishing literature in 90 languages, it can be easily realized that this coming world's conference to be held in San Francisco, will be a mean air-fair. Besides the thousands that will be in attendance from every state in the Union, there will be delegates present from almost every other part of the world. It will be the greatest gathering ever held in the history of this people.

In 1870 there were only 6000
Seventh Day Adventists in existence.
In 1874 they sent their first missionary into the fields beyond, but so great has been their growth, and so widespread their endeavors, that today they have thousands of missionaries operating in firmly established mission stations in almost every country on the globe. In fact, it would be quite a task to name a country that Seventh Day Adventists are not operating in, and they are nearing the 50,000-mark in membership. The total number of persons baptized last year was 10,335.

In the United States and Canada during 1916 there was turned into the mission treasury $778,694.10—an amount equal to $9.74 per capita.
For the year 1918 the slogan is:
"A million dollars for missions," and there is every likelihood of their going far beyond this mark, and the coming conference in California will result in this people breaking every record, both in men and means for the mission-fields of the regions beyond.

Government statistics bear out their claims that they are operating in more countries than any other Protestant missionary society in the world, and that they are giving more per capita by nearly 15 times for the support of their foreign missionaries than the members of any other denomination supporting foreign missionaries.

Besides the support of their local church-work, and their home missions, and besides the per capita of $9.74 for foreign missions, Seventh Day Adventists turned into the treasury during 1916, a tithe or tenth of $2,291,423.46.

Seventh Day Adventists believe that they have been raised up in the providence of God and in the fulfillment of prophecy to deliver to the entire world the message of the soon-coming of Christ, and reports coming in certainly show that they are bearing all their energies to the accomplishment of the task.

The coming world's conference in San Francisco will receive some of the most stirring reports in missionary endeavor that have ever been presented anybody in all the history of evangelism.

GRANVILLE
(Special to The Advocate.)
Granville, Jan. 30.—Working for soldiers is growing more and more popular among the women of Granville, and on Tuesday afternoon the
A. F. F. W. welcomed to the rooms a greater number than ever before.

Working for the soldiers is the hobby of the women of Granville.
The coming world's conference in San Francisco will receive some of the most stirring reports in missionary
endeavor that have ever been presented anybody in all the history of evangelism.

Blood Got So Bad Was Almost
Paralyzed One Side,
Legs Swelled Up.

LAYED OFF FROM WORK FOR NEARLY FIVE YEARS.

"After suffering for years and being unable to work I am glad to say that once more I feel like my self and am back on the job," declared another of those many men who had to give up work through poor health.

Miners, trainmen, mechanics and men of all kinds who spend most of their time out of doors, often lay off and can't even hold down their jobs because of blood or indigestion trouble that gradually, and like a stealthy thief, steals their strength and health away.

Read what this well-known Princeton, W.
Va., mechanic says about it.

"I suffered from blood poisoning on my leg and partial paralysis of one side of my body and had stomach trouble bad. I would wake up with a numbness on my whole left side. My leg swelled up and turned purple and it got so bad I was unable to work for nearly five years.

Then a friend of mine advised me to get some Nuxated Iron and in three days after those long years of suffering, my leg healed, except a tiny spot, and that was gone soon afterwards. The numbness and paralysis left me and I feel better than I have felt in many years. It cured me of all my troubles and boosted me up so good I am back at work for the first time in many years," writes W. H. Richards, sr.,
Princeton, W. Va.

AN EASY WAY TO BANISH PIMPLES

If you are troubled with pimples, blackheads, acne, barber's itch, blotches, freckles or other skin disease or blemishes, now is the time to get rid of it with HOKARA.

This pure and simple skin healer is being introduced in Newark by T. J.
Evans at the low price of 35c for a liberal sized jar, and they have sold hundreds of treatments.

It contains no grease or acids, is cleanly to use and is a true nourishment for the skin, cleaning and clearing it in every pore, making it soft, white and beautiful.

If HOKARA does not do even more than is claimed for it and give perfect satisfaction, return the empty jar to T. J. Evans Drug Store and they will refund your money. If you have any skin trouble, you cannot spend 35c to better advantage than for a jar of this skin food.—Advertisement.

COULDN'T HOLD DOWN HIS JOB

Blood Got So Bad Was Almost
Paralyzed One Side,
Legs Swelled Up.

LAYED OFF FROM WORK FOR NEARLY FIVE YEARS.

"After suffering for years and being unable to work I am glad to say that once more I feel like my self and am back on the job," declared another of those many men
who had to give up work through poor health.

Miners, trainmen, mechanics and men of all kinds who spend most of their time out of doors, often lay
off and can't even hold down their jobs because of blood or indigestion
trouble that gradually, and like a stealthy thief, steals their strength
and health away.

Read what this well-known Princeton, W.
Va., mechanic says about it.

"I suffered from blood poisoning on
my leg and partial paralysis of one side of my body and had stomach trouble bad. I would wake up with a numbness on my whole left side. My leg swelled up and turned purple and it got so bad I was unable to work for nearly five years.

Then a friend of mine advised me to get some Nuxated Iron and in three days after those long years of suffering, my leg healed, except a tiny spot, and that was gone soon afterwards. The numbness and paralysis left me and I feel better than
I have felt in many years. It cured me of all my troubles and boosted me up so good I am back at work for the first time in many years," writes W. H. Richards, sr.,
Princeton, W. Va.

"If a man lets his blood go until it is sluggish and full of acids and poisons, until he can hardly walk, much less keep up with the times.
Many a man is plunging along hardy making both ends meet because bad health holds him back. The fellow who gets "over the top" of these high cost of living days is the fellow with speed, real health, red blood, good digestion and appetite, and for this thousands of people right here

NOTICE TO PERSONS

REQUIRED TO REGISTER

All natives, citizens, denizens or subjects of the German empire, or of the imperial German government, being males of the age of 14 years and upward, who are within the United States and not actually naturalized as American citizens, are required to register as alien enemies. Those required to register must offer four unmounted photographs, not larger than 3x3 inches in size, on thin paper, with a light background. Each photograph must be signed with the name of the applicant across the face so as not to obscure the features. Fingerprints also will be registered.

The attorney-general has fixed the time of registration as the 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th and 9th days, inclusive, of February, 1918, from 6 a. m. to 8 p. m. on each of said days.

German aliens residing in cities of 3000 population or over (census of 1910) will report for registration to the places designated by the chief of police of their cities. German aliens residing in all other localities within the county will report to the nearest convenient postmaster for registration on one of the days designated without fail. Those who fail to comply will be liable to arrest and internment during the war.

BOSTON STORE MANAGER GIVEN FINE SURPRISE

Taking advantage of the vacant second floor of the Boston Store, which is being remodeled, and their manager's birthday anniversary, the employees of the Boston Store gave Mr. Charles Federman a surprise, scene and delight of his life last night.

With well made plans, it was decided to make it a complete surprise on Mr. Federman, and surprise it was. The store closed as usual at five o'clock and the employees all left. As soon as Mr. Federman started for his home the girls came back and prepared a magnificent chicken dinner, which was beautified by an enormous birthday cake. All was in readiness when Mr. A. L. Thomas telephoned Mr. Federman about six o'clock just as he was about to partake of his dinner at home, that the store was being flooded by the melting snow from the roof, and Mr. Federman came tearing down Hudson avenue in his "Sensible Six." All out of breath he made the up stairs of the store in one jump and—well, he collapsed.

Dancing and games constituted the evening's entertainment, a Columbia Grafonola being furnished by the C. L. Gamble furniture store. Prizes were awarded Miss May winning a silk combination, Miss Pritchard 50c in cash, Miss Kelley a dinner set, Miss McGinnis a thrift stamp and book, Miss Haynes a pie, Mr. Thomas a smoking set and Louise Pieri a pair of silk hose. Mr. Federman was presented with a fountain pen, a box of cigars and a beautiful fur couch.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Federman, N. A. Block, A. L. Thomas, Miss Jones, Miss Harriette Block, Miss Pieri, J. W. McNeill, Miss Russell, Miss Helen Pritchard, Miss Kelley, Miss Catherine Pritchard, Miss McGinnis, Miss Rugg, Miss McDonough, Miss Mechling, Miss Flo Pritchard, Miss Prior, Miss Ford, Miss Haynes, Miss May, Miss Margaret McDonough, Joseph McDonough, Ned Pritchard, J. Mechling and Harold Rosene.

LOAN ASSOCIATIONS WILL ASSIST IN THE THRIFT STAMP SALE

One direct result of the War Savings Stamp movement will be the formation of habits of thrift among a large proportion of this country's population and the first branch of business to feel this will be the building and loan associations.

With this appeal to every building and loan association in the state, and with a personal appeal to the executive committee of the Ohio League of Building and Loan Associations by H. P. Wolfe, director of the Ohio War Savings Committee, financial institutions of this class have organized for the promotion of the War Savings Stamp and Thrift Stamp sales in this state. It is planned to make of each building and loan association a sales station for the distribution of the stamps.

Success of the War Savings Stamp movement will operate to increase business and resources of financial institutions of the state, rather than to work toward a curtailment, Director Wolfe explains to the executive committee of the Ohio League. With subscriptions to liberty bonds amounting to $800,000,000 in the fourth federal reserve district—including Ohio, Western Pennsylvania, and parts of Kentucky and West Virginia—all out $150,000,000 of which has been paid, bank resources in this territory have experienced a very fair increase, Director Wolfe explains. This refutes the statement that the War Savings Plan will hurt banking business, he says.

UNIVERSITY CALLS OFF THE CONGRESS

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 30.—In view of the fact that the Federal Government has requested that traveling be limited to absolutely essential traffic to help out congestion in railway transportation, the University of Illinois has called off the congress to discuss "Labor Problems Resulting from the War" which had been called for February 14, 15 and 16.

Plans had practically been completed for the program and many leaders of both labor and capital had agreed to address the congress. But after the request by the government that unnecessary travel be eliminated as a means of relieving the railroad situation, the committee in charge of the congress consulted with President Edmund J. James who approved the decision to co-operate with the Federal Government.

The congress had been called to bring employers and wage-earners closer together that they might recognize the human element in production. Though postponed indefinitely, the congress will be called as soon as conditions make it practical.

SOLDIERS' LETTERS

Mrs. Lulu Speaks of 74 Allston avenue has received an interesting letter from her son, Harry E. Speaks, formerly of Camp Sherman, transferred some months ago to San Antonio and late to Waco, Texas, where he is stationed at present. He is a brother of Cary Speaks, well known mechanic at the B. & O. shops. Following is the young soldier's letter:

A. S. S. C. 38th Squadron.
Waco, Texas, Jan. 24, 1918.
Dear Mother and All:—Received your letter of the 21st. Was very glad to hear from you, also that you were all well. I am feeling fine. What kind of weather have you been having in dear old Newark? It has been like summer here up until the 10th. I guess the people here know 12 hours before a storm is coming. On the evening of the 10th our commanding officer came along and told us to stake our tents down tight. Because they had phoned out from town and said there would be a storm before morning. We went ahead and fixed them so we thought they were all right. But when we wakened up on the morning of the 11th we had to brush the snow off our blankets before we could get up. And then we had to hunt around in snow drifts under our beds to find our clothes and shoes. It went pretty hard with some of the boys. I did not mind it much as I am used to cold weather. On the 12th they told us to bank up dirt around our tents. There was another storm coming. So we fixed it so we thought nothing could get in. In fact we could hardly get in ourselves. But there was one thing we forgot to do. That was to put our barrack bags and clothes up off the ground. When we wakened up in the morning everything was in a bad way. Faces of water. We then had to dig ditches to let the water out of our tents. But we don't mind little things like that. We have board floors now in our tents and can laugh at the next storm if it isn't too bad. Well I guess we have it nice to what the boys in the trenches have. So we have no kick coming. We are all anxious to get over there with them. But don't know if we'll get there or not. We never know when we are going to move until about a day before. When we left Keller field we did not know we were going till the night before and then we were not sure where we were going. I received a box of tobacco yesterday from Uncle Harry Seitz and I sure was glad to get it, as I was out and also broke. Leonard Burkhardt told me he was broke so flat that when his girl sent him a box of candy he had to sell it to buy stamps to write and tell her how good it was. So I think pay day had better come pretty soon, don't you?

We have not had a pay for over two months on account of being transferred so much. Some of the boys wanted to know if I was flying, tell them yes I am flying around the kitchen getting the meals ready for the boys. When I get home you won't have any cooking to do. All you will need to do is come to my room about four in the morning and yell all cooks out and get mess ready. And I will be right on the job. This is all I can say for this time, so good bye, with love to all. Your son, Harry E. Speaks.

THE following ruling was received today by the local Food Administration Committee from Fred C. Croton, Federal Food Administrator for Ohio, regarding the sale of flour and substitutes.

Advices from Washington make it imperative that combination ruling shall be enforced literally and absolutely on both wholesalers and retailers until further notice. This must be construed to mean that if grocers do not have sufficient amount of substitutes to combine fifty with white flour they must limit or suspend sale of white flour. Substitutes permitted under equal weights combination ruling are Corn Meal, Corn Starch, Corn Flour, Hominy, Corn Grits, Barley Flour, Rice, Rice Flour, Oat Meal, Rolled Oats, Buckwheat Flour, Potato Flour, Sweet Potato Flour, Soy Beans Flour, and Feterita Flours and Meals. Ruling means one or more of these substitutes may be combined to form equal weight with white flour sold. Resultant demand substitutes shall not be permitted to increase prices of these substitutes. Give this information to wholesale and retail dealers and enforce strictly.

The Licking County Food Administration Committee therefore calls the attention of the wholesale and retail dealers to this new ruling and requests that same be rigidly carried out.

EMBARGO LIFTED; FARMERS BUSY. (Associated Press Telegram.)

Clinton, O., Jan. 29.—Clinton county farmers using this city as a shipping point made the greatest haste of their lives this week when the news of the lifting of the live stock embargo was given out. The evening the news was received six cars of live stock were loaded and the next day five as many were ready for shipment. Farmers are finding the combination of the embargo and the snow-blocked roads a great difficulty in carrying out their plans, so they say, and in many instances feed has become scarce.

WILL TELL OF EXPERIENCE IN THE TRENCHES

People of Newark and Licking county will have another opportunity of hearing first hand the experiences of a man who has just returned from the battle line in France, Capt. C. W. Whitehair has been secured with great difficulty by the Rotary club to give an address in the high school auditorium next Tuesday evening, Feb. 5.

Capt. Whitehair who is associated with John R. Mott, has made three trips to Europe, and has spent a major portion of his time in the trenches. He is a very eloquent speaker, and his ability in this regard is supported by experiences and a life of action at the front. He will speak next Monday night in Memorial hall in Columbus, and it was partly due to the fact that he was so near that he could be induced to come to Newark.

We should all take advantage of the opportunity to hear men like Capt. Whitehair because there will be few enough opportunities from now on, and we must get the men when they are available.

The Newark Rotary club is assuming all the expenses of this address, and invites the people of Newark and Licking county to come as its guests. There will be no admission or solicitation of any kind.

It is the intention of the Rotary club to procure men of talent and ability as they may become available who have seen service at the front, and to assume the expenses of bringing them to Newark to speak on subjects connected with the war.

Don't fail to hear Capt. Whitehair next Tuesday evening at the high school. Come early or you may not get a seat.
